Society(MERDS), India

BENG's philosophy and beliefs: BENG is committed to increasing the level of education of children in south India. Their target group consists of children living with their families below the poverty line. Schooling and training are the keys for these children to provide for their own livelihood and the building of an independent and dignified existence.

MERDS VISION: The Organization is committed To Improve the Socio – Economic Development of the down – trodden masses of Natham, Sanarpatty, Dindigul Blocks of Dindigul District and other parts of Tamil Nadu State, South India.

MERDS MISSION: It strive work for the Development of rural poor women, children and educated unemployed youth. It also tries to create a sustainable mechanism at micro-level to build a society, based on equity and social justice.

CHAPTER- 1: DROP OUT CENTRE

Children from our DOC are happy to get their school education and cocurricular exposures. They are free minded and will ask questions about their doubts on school subjects. The children especially have to learn English and Mathematics. Our teachers will help them with these subjects but they can also teach them on all the other subjects. We teach the children on the subject curriculum and conduct small in-between tests on the subjects. Hence the children are fearless to attend the final examinations in their schools.

We provide chances to participate in the co-curricular activity competitions like drama, singing, dancing and drawing. Our children are showing efficiency on such skills and won prizes and awards on such competitions. We find that the children are getting encouraged to attend schools regularly and are ready to go for higher studies. The parents are also happy on seeing the education promotion of their children and give their support to continue their education.

The children who go for 10th, 11th and 12th standard are attaining higher and better concentration on their studies thanks to our DOC project. They have moved their mindset towards their life goal after the schooling. Hence, we provide counselling for their next move – be it studies or employment. The senior students who studied at our DOC were invited to share their experiences with the present children. They shared the experiences about their workplace and the hurdles they met while they approached the employment, and so helped the DOC children to get a realistic idea of the labour market.

We are happy to convey that almost all the 12th standard students who passed the examinations were settled in their colleges and started college studies. The 10th, 11th standard students are continuing their consecutive course of study at present. The pandemic COVID badly affected the community and seriously hindered the DOC to continue their school education, but we can assure 80% recovery from the backlog now. The crucial problems of child marriage, child labour and child illiteracy that had revived during COVID are being diminished through our project. Early 2023 extra classes were held for the 10th, 11th and 12th standard children (16 students) so that they could prepare for their final examinations in the best possible way. To this end the weekend Saturday and Sunday were utilized for these study motivation classes and the teachers performed their role well. The children from these poor rural families attend Government schools with classes up to 50-60 children. For them it is not possible to overcome the lag in education built up during COVID in their regular schooldays. They simply cannot afford private extra lessons to catch up on the curriculum and prepare for exams.

Doc group study

We provide nutritious food and hygienic practices to our children during weekdays. The evening meal helps the children to attain satisfaction in their body and mind. This way the BENG projects made such wonderful change among our most backward community people and children.

Palm leaf knitting

Cow keeping

The palm leaf working women are getting good orders and the small business makes them earn a reasonable income so they can lead their lives happily along with their family. The children of these families go to school and are getting good support from their parents. The summer season has started but there is no problem of getting raw materials for their small business. Our financial support has helped them to invest and pay an advance, so they can build up a stock of palm leaf from the garden of the owners. After Covid the opportunities of marketing their palm mats have increased and there is a good demand for the palm leaf products.

The cow keeping women are also reaping the harvest. The milk yield is good and the selling price of the milk has increased to 40Rupees per liter. There was good and enough rain during monsoon season and the water level is good to maintain the cows. However, the peak period will be in April and May and little care is to be taken on cows. The economic situation of the families is slowly improving and they send their children to school regularly. They also participate in agriculture labor and earn well for their family.

Word of thanks: We thank BENG, Netherlands for the immense help and guidance they gave on increasing the life standard of the people and community. The women and children enjoying their rights and responsibility due to BENG projects. The livelihood support is wonderful and paves way to attain sustainability on their life status.
